Data integration, disclosure and analysis are becoming a key business resource underpinning the operations of companies focused on IT investments. There is no doubt that, just the growth in 19th century was fuelled by coal and by oil in 20th, 21st century will be the age of digitisation, including market data technologies. In this context, the continuously increasing demand for market data driven by the dynamic development of commodity markets in Poland is a noteworthy factor. Efficient flow of information is crucial not only internally but also between the organisation and its partners, which seems to be instrumental in shaping transparent markets, including commodity markets.

AIR PLATFORM AS TGE TGE'S RESPONSE TO THE NEEDS OF MARKET PARTICIPANTS

Taking into consideration dynamic changes in the power industry and growing demand of market participants for professional analyses, Towarowa Gielda Energii (TGE) has created the AIR Platform (Analyses, Information, Reports). It is designed to provide comprehensive market information in the form of standard and customised products.

WHO IS THE TGE'S OFFER ADDRESSED TO?

The AIR platform is a quick and reliable tool used by TGE to provide a full picture of the commodity exchange market, based on advanced technology solutions. The range of information products offered by TGE is aligned with the individual needs of various client groups who may use market data for trading purposes as well as for industry analyses or research. The offer is addressed to market players that use data in various applications including algorithmic trading, risk management, quantitative analysis or portfolio management, as well as to information distributors, experts, market analysts and journalists concerned with the energy industry.

The AIR platform provides access a wide range of data from different markets operated by TGE, including daily reports sent to users automatically in the form of CSV files that ensure an easy transfer of the data to larger databases.

SUBSCRIPTION OF DAILY REPORTS

The AIR platform users may obtain access to daily reports based on a subscription plan available either for 3 or 12 months. The term of access to the data covered by the subscription starts running from the beginning of the month, regardless of the moment when the subscription was purchased.

At the same time, the user also has direct access to historical data which have been divided into two types of products:

- a dynamic historical database with all the daily reports by market since the beginning of the previous year,
- a static historical database with all the daily reports by market in a given year.

This solution provides customers with exceptional flexibility in building or complementing databases.

SUBSCRIPTION OF DATA PACKAGES

In response to market participants' demand for comprehensive data (specifically those concerning the particular markets they operate on), the AIR Platform offers dedicated packages for electricity, natural gas and property rights. Each package ensures access to all daily reports from a given market. At the same time, products providing access to the dynamic historical database are available as part each of the respective packages.

There are two subscription options available, i.e. 3-month and 12-month plan.

PREMIUM PACKAGE

The Premium Package is a solution enabling access to all types of reports on a subscription basis, including all the markets operated by TGE. A similar package is also offered for products covered by the dynamic historical database. The products are addressed to exchange members and institutions such as information agencies, brokerage houses, web portals, software providers and other entities willing to offer their clients services involving the use of market data authorized by TGE.

There are two subscription options available, i.e. 3-month and 12-month plan.

CUSTOMIZED SERVICES

Particular data needs can be addressed through customized services ('tailor-made' reports). The service is available to the registered users of the AIR platform.

BUSINESS INTELLIGENCE ANALYSES

Business Intelligence (BI) solutions will soon be implemented within the AIR platform. These are products that guarantee flexible access to databases, which are meant to support the decision making process, ensure more effective management and enhance knowledge about the functioning of commodity markets.
